We feel very strongly that the present long drawn out trial of Microsoft should be brought to a conclusion once and for all. A tremendous amount of money has been spent and a reasonable compromise has been arrived at by Microsoft and the U.S.Government. The American people need to put this mess behind us. We need everyone involved in the world of technology to put forth their very best effort to bring this nation back on course to a strong and healthy economic recovery. We will all benefit-- the consumer industry and the government.
